

Brampton College Curriculum Policy

Aims

The College curriculum aims to provide a very high level of care, guidance and support for each student to enable them to achieve their individual academic aims and to be successful against strong competition for the next stage of their education, training or direct employment. The key elements of the curriculum, which includes a flexible timetable and course structure, small classes, individual tutorials, testing and individual review meetings with personal tutors, are designed to respond to each student's personal educational interests and needs.

We do this in an atmosphere which is warm and informal, but also one in which students are expected to work hard and to develop an adult sense of honesty, independence, responsibility and consideration for others, in preparation for university and working life.

The curriculum also aims to encourage students to maintain a balance between academic work and an enriching extracurricular life, and to prepare students for the opportunities and challenges of adulthood.

The curriculum provides:

- full time supervised education for students of compulsory school age;
- the opportunity to experience learning in the following areas: spiritual, moral, social and cultural (SMSC) as well as linguistic, mathematical, technological, human and social, physical and creative;
- the opportunity to acquire skills in literacy, numeracy, listening and speaking;
- actively promotes fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs;
- subject matter appropriate for the ages and aptitudes of students, including those with SEND;
- lessons in written and spoken English where a student's first language is not English and if the student has not reached a certain level of proficiency;
- appropriate pastoral care and careers guidance, including promotion of the value of work experience and voluntary work.

All parts of the curriculum are reviewed regularly to ensure:

- students can develop their self-knowledge, self-esteem and self-confidence;
- students are able to distinguish right from wrong and to respect the civil and criminal law of England;
- students are encouraged to accept responsibility for their behaviour, show initiative and understand how they can contribute positively to the lives of those living and working in the locality in which the college is situated and to society more widely;
- students are enabled to acquire a broad general knowledge of and respect for public institutions and services in England;
- students know how to stay safe and understand how to be physically and mentally healthy;
- students recognise that the College is a community where we work together, support each other and share and celebrate their successes.

Brampton College celebrates our multicultural heritage by recognising important milestones in the year to increase further tolerance and harmony between different cultural traditions by enabling students to acquire an appreciation of and respect for their own and other cultures.

Events in the College encourage respect for other people, paying particular regard to the protected characteristics set out in the Equality Act 2010. A respect for democracy and support for participation in the democratic process, including respect for the basis on which the law is made and applied in England is encouraged in the GCSE PHSE lessons, assemblies and personal tutor sessions as well as through lessons.

Where political issues are brought to the attention of students they are offered a balanced presentation of opposing views which happens during their attendance at College, during extra-curricular activities which are provided or organised by or on behalf of the college and those taking place elsewhere. The College will monitor its activities to prevent the promotion of partisan political views.

All students are very carefully assessed by the Senior Leadership Team and relevant Heads of Department prior to enrolment to determine the most suitable programme for them, regarding the student's academic aims and current level of attainment.

The College offers considerable flexibility in choosing courses according to individual circumstances, and students can take a mixture of courses if this is the most appropriate programme for them (including a mixture of 1st year A level and GCSE courses).

The majority of students at Brampton College study A level subjects and there is also a small GCSE department.

Curriculum offer - AS and A level

The courses offered at AS and A levels include:

1. A two-year A level course – this is the standard A level programme and students normally start on four subjects and then either drop down to their preferred three within the first term or continue with all four to the end of the first year.

The College only offers the AS qualification in CIE subjects (English and Computer Science) or if a student would like to receive a qualification in their fourth subject. In the second year of the A level, most students will continue to study three of their subjects to A level but there is great flexibility in students' programmes and it may be in some students' best interests to continue with all four subjects.

The time allocation for this course is 4 hours 40 mins per subject per week in the first year which increases to 5 hours 20 mins per subject per week in the second year. In the first year of Science subjects, students will have 5 hours 20 mins per week due to the time needed for practical work.

2. A one-year course to study the second year of the A level – this course is for students who have completed the first A level year (Year 12) elsewhere and come to the College to continue their studies and complete their A levels. In general, they join the existing second year A level classes, and additional help is provided to address any differences in the subject curriculum between the previous school or college and Brampton.

The time allocation for this course is 5 hours 20 minutes per subject per week and additional tutorials as required.

3. A one-year A level course – this course is either for students wishing to retake A level subjects over a year, or for those wishing to take up a new subject and study the whole A level in one year on an intensive course.

The time allocation for this course is 6 hours 40 minutes per subject per week.

Curriculum offer - GCSE

The College has a small but thriving GCSE department managed by the Head of GCSE.

A small group of students each year follow a programme consisting only of GCSE subjects. Students generally take up to seven subjects and the timetable allows for a flexible combination of choices thereby ensuring each student is treated as an individual. The course is intensive and is covered in just one year with 4 hours allocated to each subject per week apart from Maths which has 5 hours 20 minutes per week. The intake of students includes those transferring to the College for the final year of their GCSE studies, international students wishing to complete their GCSEs in one year and integrate into the English education system, as well as those students retaking GCSEs.

An A level student may also wish to retake GCSEs in some subjects or add a new GCSE subject to their portfolio.

Although as an independent College we are not obliged to follow the National Curriculum, all GCSE students participate in a structured PHSE course. There are also regular outings to art galleries, museums, fieldwork and lecture days. Students also take part in a variety of sporting activities in a regular weekly session on their timetable. A document outlining the GCSE curriculum in greater detail is available separately.

Additional curriculum information

In addition to the hours allocated to the regular lessons, individual tutorials are provided in most subjects.

An up-to-date list of the subjects offered at the College is available on the website and from the College Office upon request.

Curriculum notes and schemes of work are available for each subject.

The College provides appropriate classes in English as a Foreign Language as required to students whose first language is not English based on their current level of proficiency. We also offer the Extended Project Qualification (EPQ) to students in the first year of their A level.

Extracurricular activities

Extracurricular activities play an important role within the College and are a way of improving the social, moral, physical and artistic development of students, particularly in view of their initial integration into the College, and of conveying the importance of the balance between work and other aspects of life. The policy is to offer a range of activities which cater for different tastes, ages and genders.

Most activities are purely recreational, like the art and book clubs, but some also have an element of competition or display. Occasional football fixtures are arranged against other colleges and schools, while the Young Enterprise programme is competitive within the College and in the London area. The students can gain a sense of pride for their own performance and achievement and in the College through the honour of representing the College in competitive fixtures. The Duke of Edinburgh Award scheme is also a popular and highly worthwhile programme of volunteering, physical activity, learning a new skill and taking part in an expedition.

We run the UK Maths Challenge as an annual event as well as Science Olympiads. The College has an active Charity Committee and Student Council and students are encouraged to get involved in raising money for the local community. During the year we run workshops on emotional resilience, wellbeing and coping with stressful situations.

Student achievement in extracurricular activity is celebrated through Personal Tutor sessions, assemblies, articles and photographs on the College website, in the newsletter, and in the annual Art Exhibition Evening in June, to which parents are invited.

Appropriate Health & Safety procedures are followed for all activities taking place on or off the College premises.

Personal Tutor sessions

Each student is assigned to a Personal Tutor group which meets weekly 11.50 am – 12.30 pm on a Wednesday. The Personal Tutor (PT) will normally be one of the student's teachers. The role of the PT is to be the main point of contact with the College for the student and to monitor their progress by discussing their regular test and homework results, attendance, academic target setting, and study skills support as well as their overall wellbeing. The PT will also help with personal statements for university applications and will encourage students to pursue extra-curricular activities, further reading and voluntary work.

Monitoring the College's curriculum

Each Head of Department is responsible for annually reviewing the effectiveness curriculum in their area and if necessary proposing changes as part of their departmental reviews. These reviews are monitored by the Senior Leadership Team and may affect the whole College curriculum where emerging issues are identified, for example reviewing the hours allocated to each subject or developing a whole college initiative to address a particular theme, such as literacy.
